The patcher will continue to be out working in an effort to get across the entire county. The sign truck was out last week working to repair damaged/deteriorated signage. During periods of wet and muddy conditions last week yard materials were organized and put away. Materials were staged for upcoming projects as well, Johnson added.

The IDHSEMA has reached out for some additional documentation on the FEMA project. The department will provide the requested documentation.

Last week rain events prevented the contractor from working the first part of the week on the Redding weir project. Once conditions became suitable the contractor worked to shape and place revetment at the south bridge abutment slope.

The department has been working to complete the final forms packet required to close the Washington 20 project out. The final pay voucher is ready for the Board of Supervisors chairman signature. The department is waiting for verification of subcontractor payments by the prime contractor before the final closeout documents can be submitted to the IDOT.

Last week two working days were lost at the Union 6 site due to rain events. The crew was able to set beams and begin decking the bridge. Approximately 2/3 of the bridge was decked.

The plan for this week is to finish decking the bridge, install overhang brackets, deck the overhang, install curb forms, and begin tying deck reinforcing steel. It is anticipated that the bridge deck will be poured next week.

Final plans for the J23 and P64 projects have been turned in to the IDOT for review. Once approved they will be sent to the office of contracts for inclusion in the January 19, 2022 IDOT letting.

The Board was contacted by Gene and Kelly Klommhaus with a bridge concern in section 31 of Union Township. Johnson said the crew is going to shape the dirt road to allow for better access from the east.
